MYSTERY STILL SHROUDS DEATH

No Report from Albany on Analysis of Pork Chops Which Formed Part of the Fatal Sunday Morning Breakfast of the Sottile Family on Gill Street.

While no report has been received as yet from the state laboratory at Albany of the analysis of the pork chops that formed part of the fatal Sunday morning breakfast of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriele Sottile of No. 39 Gill street, Dr. H. L. Van Nostrand who attended the husband and wife, and other physicians who saw the cases at the Benedictine Hospital, are firm in the belief that death was due to botulism caused by the bad condition of the pork. It is expected that word will be received from Albany within a few days.

According to the dictionary definition, botulism is the medical term for sausage or canned meat poisoning, but what the Sottiles ate was pork chops. A careful investigation of the rumor regarding mushrooms developed the fact that they had not eaten any mushrooms in several years.

According to some gossip that has been circulated death was due to some poison that had been placed in the food by person or persons unknown.

Until a report is received from Albany mystery still shrouds the death of the unfortunate couple.

If pork chops were infected with such deadly germs as botulism it seems rather remarkable that no other cases have been reported as it seems improbable that all of the infected meat would go to but one family.

SOTTILE FAMILY MAKE STATEMENT

John Sottile and Alphonso Sottile, brother and cousin, respectively, of Gabriele Sottile and his wife, Guizila, who died Tuesday at the Benedictine Hospital, called at The Freeman office today and asked that the following statement be made in regard to the food the deceased couple ate prior to their death.

Saturday evening they purchased pork and returned home. On Sunday morning Mrs. Sottile cooked the pork, which they later ate. She also prepared French fried potatoes. About 2 o'clock the same afternoon Mr. Sottile became sick and lay down. He awoke at 6 o'clock in the evening and ate more of the pork. On attempting to rise the next morning, Monday, he was unable to get out of the bed, as was his wife, and they were both suffering intense pain. The deceased's father came in and called Dr. H. A. Van Nostrand, who immediately came to the home. He again called and had them removed to the Benedictine Hospital, where they both died on Tuesday.

CENSORSHIP FOR ARBUCKLE FILMS

Character of Films Will Determine State's Approval—Women's Club Will Renew Fight Against Showing Them.

New York, Dec. 21.—Action on the showing of pictures featuring Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, film star, restored to good standing by the Christmas generosity of Will Hays, dictator of the films, will be deferred until the pictures have been presented for their censorship, was the statement today of George H. Cobb, chairman of the motion picture commission of New York.

The character of the films themselves, rather than the record of the actors, would determine whether they received the state's seal of approval, he said.

"What Will Hays says does not concern us," he stated. "We are a board acting under the laws of the state."

Women to Fight Films.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 21.—When Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, film comedian, takes advantage of the opportunity granted him by Will Hays, whose word is law in the motion picture world, to work again at his chosen profession, he will return in the role of an actor, and not as a director. This much of Arbuckle's future plans were learned today from Joseph M. Schenck, his personal friend and advisor, who will employ him. Schenck said after the holidays a new story will be secured as a starring vehicle for Arbuckle and that filming of it will start as soon as possible.

Arbuckle, still nonplussed at the sudden opening of the "closed road" by Hays, had little to say today. "Fatty" said he regretted very much he had not been able to make a Christmas picture to gladden the hearts of his child admirers.

Coming close on the heels of Hays' granting Arbuckle the right to work, it was learned that the women's clubs will renew their fight against showing his pictures.

Mrs. Cobb Breaks Arm.

KINGSTON'S TAX RATE WILL BE $32.60 IN 1923

This is Thirty Cents Less Than the Past Year When the Rate Was $32.90—Mayor Crane Held Informal Meeting With Common Council and Heads of Departments to Talk Over Proposed Budget.

Kingston's tax rate for 1923 will be $32.60 per thousand valuation if the proposed budget is adopted by the common council at the January meeting. The rate this year was $32.90, or thirty cents a thousand more than next year's rate.

Wednesday evening Mayor Walter P. Crane held an informal meeting with the members of the common council and the heads of the various departments to talk over the proposed budget. The total amount to be raised by taxes in 1923 is $649,550.08, which includes state and county tax and general city expenses.

At the meeting Wednesday evening no objections were raised and it is expected that the council will unanimously adopt the budget as it now stands the evening of January 2.

The amounts allowed the various city boards to carry on their work during next year follow:

Board of public works, $213,760.65
Fire board, 47,088.00
Police board, 57,203.14
Board of health, 12,344.33
Charity board, 36,496.16

The remainder of the budget is made up in bonds and interest, general expenses, salaries and county and state taxes.

The Kingston City Library will be appropriated $3,000, and a recommendation will be made that the library association be allowed an additional $2,000 to carry on the work.

It was brought out at the meeting that the board of health is planning to consolidate the positions of sanitary inspector and food inspector and employ one of the men now holding those jobs to do the work of both.

STUDENT'S 90 DAY FANTASTIC CLAIM BROUGHT CASH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 21.—Hamilton Heugnet, 22, erstwhile electrical engineering student at the University of Missouri, was free today to ruminate upon as amazing a ninety days of experience as ever befell a fictional hero.

Three months ago Heugnet, whose home is in Kansas City, inherited $10,000 from his grandfather, Pierre Heugnet, one of the founders of St. Louis. His dreams were of a movie career rather than engineering so the first train took him to Los Angeles. There an expensive hotel suite, a wicked looking roadster and a rain-bow wardrobe gained him entry to movie land.

Heugnet met Miss Charlotte Stevens, motion picture star, fell in love, wooed her madly and they became engaged. Heugnet's patrimony sped from his fingers with an amazing swiftness. Last week there was a "lovers' tiff" Miss Stevens went to Chicago for the holidays. Heugnet took stock. He was penniless. He came to San Francisco and stowed away on the liner Sonoma. But he was a good sailor and head to reveal his presence before the ship had dropped pilot. He came back a prisoner, being released after his fingerprints were taken.

"I feel like a glittering bubble," he said. "Life has been swift and glorious. I have been shot up in the air and now I seem to have come down—hard on concrete."

Dog Dies While Playing.

While a large shepherd dog and a small black and tan dog were playing together on Main street near Fair, and this morning, about 10 o'clock, running through the snow, the smaller dog toppled over on the sidewalk and died. The large shepherd tried to raise up his playmate of a minute before by pushing his nose under him. He then sat down beside the dead canine, keeping a vigil over him, now and then trying to render assistance.

GRAND JURY FINDS 23 INDICTMENTS

Also Adopts Resolutions Expressive of "Excess of Kindness and Trustfulness" Displayed Toward Jail Inmates.

The grand jury which has been in attendance at the December term of Supreme court completed its work Wednesday morning and at 2 o'clock handed up its report to Justice Staley who is presiding at this term of court.

There were 23 indictments in all, 12 of them sealed. In six cases no indictments were found and in these cases dismissals were ordered by the court. Among the dismissals was the action brought against L. H. Vermilye, a West Shore railroad conductor who on the evening of November 11, was in charge of a freight train which blocked the Broadway crossing for a period of more than five minutes, a violation of section 1395 of the penal law. He was arrested by a policeman at that time for willfully blocking the crossing. The grand jury in dismissing this case recommended that the matter be referred to the mayor and common council.

Prisoners Arraigned.

The prisoners arraigned by District Attorney Traver as follows:

Rosario Rescio, indicted for having a pistol concealed on his person. Rosario is the man who became enthusiastic one day in the ferry house on the Strand and took a pistol from his pocket and fired it off in the ferry house. When arraigned he entered a plea of not guilty. William D. Brinnier, Jr., asked 20 days to make any motion he desired. Motion granted.

Roscoe Benson, charged with robbery first degree alleged to have been committed on November 4. The indictments were returned against him, all charging robbery first degree. The first charge is that he robbed Oscar Jackson in this city the second that he robbed Melvin Hornbeck in this city and the third that he robbed Thomas Gallo in the town of Ulster. All of the transactions took place on November 4. He pleaded not guilty. A. J. Cook was assigned as counsel.

Samuel Adams, against whom two indictments were found for robbery, first degree, was a companion of Benson at the time of the robberies in the city on November 4. He also pleaded not guilty.

Cleora Green, against whom three indictments were found charging him with robbery, first degree, in connection with the same affair as Benson, also pleaded not guilty and H. Westlake Coons was assigned in his case.

William Reed, also known as "Big Bill," indicted for robbery, first degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of Saugerties on October 21, when he held up Wilbur Schaffer in a shack near Malden, entered a plea of not guilty.

His companion, Henry Thomas, also known as "Blue," who assisted in the holding up of Schaffer, entered a similar plea. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for "Blue." "Blue," who gets the name from his peculiar color, was at a loss to know how to plead when his attorney failed to recognize him when he was arraigned. Mr. Flanagan, who knows his client as "Blue," as do all others to whom he is known, failed to recognize his "fancy" name when he was called to the bar of justice and as "Blue" had suddenly turned black when his case was called. Mr. Flanagan also failed to recognize his client by his usual color. An explanation that Mr. Flanagan appeared for him straightened out the matter and a plea of not guilty was duly entered.

All of the prisoners who were arraigned, with the exception of Rescio, were gentlemen of color.

An order was entered transferring the criminal cases to county court.

Cases Dismissed.

No indictments being found in the following cases, District Attorney Traver asked for dismissals:

L. H. Vermilye, charged with willfully blocking the Broadway crossing.

Vincenzo Dazzo, held on a charge of grand larceny, alleged to have been committed in the town of Esopus.

Giuseppe Stephano, arson, second degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of Marlborough.

Cleveland DuBois, abandonment, alleged to have been committed in the town of Shawangunk.

Thomas McGann, grand larceny, city of Kingston.

John Bailey, assault, second degree, who was held by Assistant City Judge Groves for an act alleged to have been committed in this city.

In completing their duties the grand jury handed up with their indictments and dismissals the following resolution which was signed by each member of the grand jury and filed with the clerk:

Grand Jury's Resolutions.

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 19, 1922.

In closing up the work of its session, the undersigned, composing the December grand jury for Ulster county, wishes to place upon record its appreciation of the assistance rendered it by District Attorney Frederick G. Traver. Confronted by an unusual number of important cases, these have been presented to our consideration through the examination of witnesses by Mr. Traver in such sequence of testimony that it has resulted in little difficulty for us to reach a unanimous decision upon each and every case brought to our attention. In those dismissed by us, it is our opinion that such action has been justified by insufficient testimony to establish the connection of the accused with the commission of the crime alleged, or by reason of

ROSS DIVORCE SUIT ON TRIAL

In supreme court this morning the action for divorce brought by Dr. G. W. Ross of Port Ewen against his wife, Dulcie H. Ross, was taken up for trial.

Testimony on the part of servants employed in the house was to the effect that during the doctor's absence from the house Mrs. Ross had been extremely friendly with a chauffeur, George Dunn, who was employed by the family. On occasions, the witnesses testified, Mrs. Ross was heard in the room occupied by Dunn.

George Van Aken, a relative of Mrs. Ross, who is employed as night operator at the Esopus station, testified that when on his way to work between 10:30 and 11:00 p. m., he saw Mrs. Ross in company with Louis Tudoroff and Mr. and Mrs. Tudoroff walking along the state road outside the village limits.

He also has been to Pine Hill on an automobile trip with his wife and others at which time Mrs. Ross accompanied them. Dunn the chauffeur, was also along and Mrs. Ross and Dunn appeared to be friendly with the parties to the action settle their differences. He had written a letter and had visited Mrs. Ross. Last Sunday he tried again to have her and the doctor make a settlement and she had told him to shut his mouth and go home.

Dr. and Mrs. Ross were married in 1900 at Port Ewen, about a year after he came to Port Ewen to practice medicine. She is a resident of Port Ewen. There are no children. William D. and William D. Brinnier, Jr., are attorneys for Dr. Ross. DuBois J. Gillette is attorney for Mrs. Ross, with Judge James Jenkins of counsel.

LEGG'S MILLS PROPERTY CLAIM BEING TRIED

The Murray-McGrath commission to appraise claims for the diverting of the waters of the Esopus creek for the New York city water supply has been hearing the claim of Mayor Walter P. Crane, owner of Legg's Mills, for the past two days at the office of W. H. Grogan, assistant corporation counsel of the New York board of water supply in the Keeney Theatre building.

Philip Schantz of Highland and Anthony Lawatch, two experts in the line of grinding grain for flour and feed, who each have been many years in the business and have thorough knowledge in the milling business in Ulster county have been giving testimony in behalf of the claimant.

Mr. Lawatch, who for three or four years has been running the Rifton flour mill, has to his credit the work of taking a dozen discarded mills and putting them on a paying basis. Owing to the conditions existing at Rifton by reason of the building of the big dam there he will close down the Rifton mill on January 1, for some time.

legal or other complications that would have made their trial abortive, with large expense to the county. Upon the issues involved in these, we have had likewise the benefit of the legal knowledge of the district attorney, upon which we feel absolute reliance is to be placed.

At the same time District Attorney Traver has in no regard sought to influence our action contrary to our sober judgment, only rendering such courteous assistance as would seem to subserve the ends of justice to both the people and the accused.

In like manner we would testify to the helpful assistance of the assistant district attorney, Cleon B. Murray, who has for the first time of this county, and who has evinced an aptitude for the work and shown a legal knowledge in criminal matters that bespeaks a successful career in his new position and fully justifies his appointment.

The grand jury has inspected the jail of the county and its surroundings, finding them cleanly and has no criticism to offer as to their physical aspects. Upon its minutes it has left of the county as to the surveillance of prisoners, that it is hoped will lead to the adoption of rules that will prevent further escape of those committed. This is not directed particularly in the way of criticism of the present management, but it is hoped will lead to steps being taken that will rectify abuses that have been of long standing from the growth of a too lenient policy extended to inmates by reason of an excess of kindness and trustfulness, which however commendable in a way should not lead to such relaxation of rules as to render escape possible.

Judge Staley Thanks Jury.

Before dismissing the members of the grand jury Judge Staley in very appropriate words thanked the members of the grand jury for their faithful work and in keeping with the spirit of the holidays wished every member of the grand jury in the accused with the commission of the crime alleged, or by reason of

GRENFELL TO TELL OF LABRADOR WORK

Twenty-five Hundred ect of Motion Picture Film Illustrating His Heroic Story, "Mid Ice and Snow in Labrador."

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, famous missionary, is scheduled to lecture at the Kingston High School on January 13, 1923. He will tell of his remarkable experiences, unfolding one of the epic stories of work and service in wild and inaccessible lands.

In 1892 at the suggestion of Lord Southborough, Dr. Grenfell first visited the coasts of Labrador and north Newfoundland in a hospital sailing ship to see if a medical and surgical service could be established. Devoted and loyal helpers from all over the English speaking world gave their services and the press for years has carried published accounts of this really romantic story, and unsought honors were heaped upon Dr. Grenfell. King Edward VII. conferred upon him the order of Companion of Saint Michael and Saint George. Oxford gave him the only honorary M. D. which that university has ever bestowed.

From the simple beginning of Dr. Grenfell's great adventure has grown one of the great service works of the world. From the one small hospital vessel there have grown along about one thousand miles of coast, a chain of six hospitals four nursing stations, two orphanages, some small schools, an industrial work, a large Seamen's Institute at St. John's, Newfoundland, a hospital steamer, and a fleet of auxiliary power yaws connected with the various hospital centers. Dr. Grenfell is a charming speaker and his appearance here is a distinct credit to the local committee.

MUST HAVE PROOF, SAYS U. S. COURT

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 21.—In a decision handed down in the United States District Court here today, Judge Edwin S. Thomas decided that before search warrants can be issued by United States commissioners to prohibition agents, positive evidence must be offered showing that actual violation of the Volstead Act has been committed on the premises for which the warrants are asked. The decision was made in four test cases.

The decision, said Judge Thomas, is based on constitutional rights which hold a person's premises inviolate and prevents one giving testimony against himself.

Hundreds of cases throughout Connecticut will be affected, it is believed, by the decision, for it is said that the majority of search warrants issued have been given out without first offering positive evidence of violations.

REFEREE DAVEY TO MANAGE TROY

Jim Davey refereed his last contest Wednesday Evening at the Local Court—Newly Chosen Manager and His Quinlet Will Be Here Christmas Afternoon.

Jim Davey, basketball referee and baseball umpire, Wednesday was named manager of the Troy New York State Basketball League team. Davey refereed his last game in the league in this city last night. Today he will go to New York to confer with members of the Troy team, and offer them new contracts.

The Troy franchise yesterday formally passed from the hands of Neil McGrath and Ed Long and became the property of a syndicate of Troy men, for whom Captain Joseph A. McCarthy of "D" Company, N. G. N. Y., acted in the negotiations leading to the transfer.

After the change in ownership was effected yesterday, Senator-elect John P. Ryan was elected president of the Troy team and John L. Fleming was selected secretary and treasurer. The appointment of Davey also was announced after the meeting.

The new owners intend to give Troy the best basketball possible, and every effort will be made to sign up most of the men who represented Troy in the league before the transfer of the franchise. It is with this object that Davey will visit New York and confer with the players today.

The first game of the Troy team under the new management will be staged here Christmas afternoon. In the evening the locals will play Troy at the latter's court.

Origin of Flavors.

Among the most remarkable glimpses into hidden corners of nature that scientific advance has afforded are the frequent discoveries of micro-organisms in unexpected places where they produce phenomena heretofore supposed to rise from other causes. For instance, a scientist in Upsala, Sweden, ascertained that in preparations of meat and fish containing, for the purpose of preservation, salt to the amount of 15 per cent, micro-organisms grow luxuriantly, and he concludes that the flavors and odors that are peculiar to various salt conserves are due to the micro-organisms with which they are crowded.

Bird-on-the-Wing.

Another "fringed" flower, that, like the orchid, is given a quaint, fanciful name, is the fringed polygala. This lovely blossom, delicately colored with a blending of rose and lavender and purple, has odd pointed petals that, when bent back, do really resemble a "bird on the wing." Although, nearly always, the polygala is to be found in dawn colors, flower lovers are occasionally fortunate enough to run across pure white blossoms of this same variety. When these are discovered, one feels that a flock of exquisite diminutive white doves nestles in the thick swamp grass.

His First Love Affair.

She was seven, and so was I. We were standing on the sidewalk, and her mother called her. She said good-by, and without asking her I kissed her. She told her mother and when my mother heard it I got spanked, and that ended by first love affair.—Exchange.

Exclusive Brunswick Features

Brunswick plays all makes of records without attachments. This means that with a Brunswick in your home you can enjoy all the great artists, regardless of the make of records for which they record.

This is accomplished by the Ultone—a part of The Brunswick—not an "attachment."

Another exclusive Brunswick feature is the Oval Tone Amplifier or horn, made entirely of wood and moulded like a fine old violin. It is responsible for much of the wondrously beautiful Brunswick tone.

FESTIVAL OF MUSIC AT ST. JAMES'S CHURCH

The music at the St. James Methodist Church on Sunday will be the outstanding feature of all the services. Miss Frances Keeney of New York, harp soloist, will play at both the morning and evening services.

In the evening there will be a great carol sing, led by Harry P. Dodge. Mrs. William S. Eltinge will preside at the organ for the carol singing. The program of Christmas music rendered by the choir and harpist will be most attractive. There will be no regular sermon. Both uptown Reformed churches have been invited to the evening service.

Unusual Automobile Display.

A rather novel Christmas present and one which would take a considerable stocking to hold it, has become quite popular during the past few years. That is an automobile. A very unusual display is being shown in the window of the Ulster Garage on Fair street, where a Nash Carrolle, from "Dad" to the whole family, is just breaking out of a huge box in which it has been shipped by Santa Claus. The idea is a novel and attractive one which causes much comment.

Various Species of Mint.

There are 12 species of mint growing in America. The most important are the spearmint or garden mint, used in mint sauce, and for flavoring chewing gum; peppermint, with which peppermint candy is flavored, and mentha prepared; pennyroyal, used in medicine; and bergamot, whose lemon-scented leaves give a fragrant oil much used in perfumes.

Water Creatures Live Long.

Among fishes and creatures that live in the water, great age is sometimes attained. The eel has been known to live 200 years. Common river trout have been confined in a well 30 to 40 years and a pike was caught in 1907 in a lake near Hattiesburg in Swabia with a brass ring attached to it recounting that it was placed in the lake in the year 1280.

Love Killed Right There.

I was fourteen and she was thirteen. She was a classmate of mine and I fell deeply in love with her. Another fellow was in love with her also. We were always quarreling about her, until she said: "You two have a fight and the one who wins, wins my hand." We fought, but she told the other fellow to punch me hard, and so my love for her died.—Chicago Journal.

SCHOOL DAYS

WINTER MORNING
By WILL M. MAUPIN

WHEN the frost is on the fodder,
And a drizzle in the air,
When the pumpkins have been gathered
And the corn is shucked with care;
When the grease is on the griddle
And the butter's in the crock,
Life's worth living winter mornings
When you rise at 6 o'clock.

When the cakes are on the griddle,
And the syrup's in the jug;
When the coffee has been settled,
And the fire is warm and snug;
When you smell the breakfast ready,
And you hear the "get up" knock,
There's a lot of joy in living,
Though you rise at 6 o'clock.

When the buckwheats reach the table,
Mountain high and piping hot;
When with syrup and with butter
They glide to the proper spot,
When you've eaten all you're able,
Full of "buck's" your wife has sent,
You can hike off to the office
Full of grub and sweet content.

Talk to me of pate de foie gras!
Talk of sauces, puddings, pies!
Talk of table d'hôte and cuisine—
Not from me they'll get a prize.
Give to me the smoking buckwheats,
Stacked up high and piping hot;
Maple syrup—then butter—
Ah, that hits the proper spot!

Has Anyone Laughed
At You Because —

By E. R. PEYER

You cry at a sad play? Haven't the strain of trying to keep back your tears spoiled many a good play for you, because some one with you giggled or remarked about your "softness," "chicken heartedness," etc.? Never you mind, the fellow that can weep is a bigger soul than the one who cannot. So be glad if you are in the class where sadness touches you. It means that life has really meant something to you, that beautiful things and beautiful ideas have done something for you. What sort of person would not cry when on the stage a child is seen dragged from its parents? If you don't cry then you are a little soul, if you do you are a real human being. If you weep alone your loneliness is the right kind.

SO
Your Get-away here is:
That you've done exactly what the writer of the play wanted you to do.

KEEP YOUR PROMISE

IN BUSINESS the man whose rating among his associates is the highest is the man who keeps his promises. Promises to pay, of course, must be kept. If they are not there is no more credit for the gentleman who makes them.

But business is not all promises to pay. There are promises to enter into contracts; promises to have shipments ready at a certain time, promises to make business engagements.

And the man who is more prodigal of promises than he is of remembering to keep them soon is regarded with distrust and suspicion.

A man who has been immensely successful in the manufacturing business is regarded by his associates as "hard boiled" in the matter of promises.

It is almost impossible to get one out of him. But once his promise is given, performance is assured, even though the performance may mean a heavy financial loss to him.

He has discovered that it is just as profitable to him to keep his promises at par as it is to keep the stock of his concern at par.

You may not be in business, or connected with business, save in the capacity of a minor employee.

But you will find that the value of your promises is just as important to you as the value of your employer's promises are to him.

You will learn if you are observant that you are judged not by making promises but by keeping them. And if after many trials your promises are found to be good you will be trusted. When a man is trusted he has made an excellent start.

It is always well to consider the matter of a promise before you make it. This applies as much to a promise to take lunch at a certain time of a certain day as to fulfill an important business engagement.

If you make no promises that you are not reasonably sure to keep, you will come to regard your word as worth something. If your friends know that they will not need to call you up and remind you of a promise, your value will increase in their eyes.

The promise-breaker is a word breaker, and word-breakers have no standing. Think well of your word and you will keep your promises. And as soon as this is established the world will think well of you.

TWO AND TWO DO NOT MAKE FOUR

Straight Up-and-Down Curbing
With Sharp Edge Compels
Motorist to Drive Out.

TIRES ARE EASILY DAMAGED

Well-Rounded Curb With Sloping Face Permits Car Owner to Park
His Car Flush With Bottom of the Curbing.

"Two and two always make four."

This is not the prologue to a vaudeville "cheeze," nor is it the opening of an intricate and technical dissertation upon the ramifications of some such subject as integral calculus. The answer as you may have expected is "No." The reasons—simple, logical and incontrovertible truths based upon actual experience. Any motorist who has suffered the torture of unexpected blow-outs on some lonely road, traceable directly to "stone bruises," "rim-cuts" or any other of the divers tire ills that come of too close association with the ancient saw-tooth edged curbing, will rise in immediate defense of the statement once he reads the facts assembled.

For argument we will suppose that the street that fronts your home is 38 feet wide from curb to curb, and that the particular type of curbing used is straight up-and-down, square-cornered, and as is usually the case where this type is in use, sharp of edge.

Rounded or Sloping Face. Going further in the process of argument we will suppose that this is replaced by a cement curb with a rounded or sloping face, graduating approximately two inches in from the road at the top and equipped with rounded corners.

How much wider, then, would the effective surface of your street become with this change? "Four inches" you say, adding the two and two of each side. You're wrong.

The effective width of the street becomes increased at least 24 inches, and possibly three or four feet. Motorists will see the reason for this at once. No careful driver will squeeze his car close to a sharp-tipped, perpendicular curbing. He knows that disastrous injuries to the tire fabric will result.

Square-Cornered Curbing Is to Be Avoided.

In consequence he parks from six inches to a foot away from the curb. The serviceable width of the street is cut down just that many inches. If a car parks directly across the street, multiply the decrease by two.

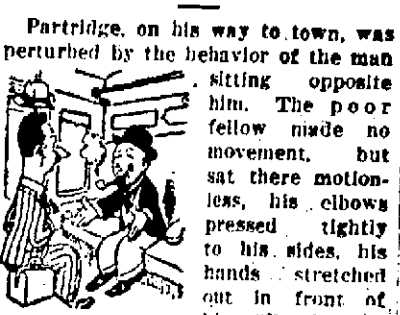

A rounded cement curb with a sloping surface permits the auto owner to park his car flush with the bottom of the curbing. There is no possibility of injury to his tires, and the entire center of the street becomes effective for traffic.

Sharp Corners Dangerous. Sharp corners make intersections dangerous for driving and the unsightly collection of refuse and dirt against the sharp curb wall is done away with. The first rain flushes the gutter immediately, and this sanitary feature of the sloping curb recommends it strongly to property owners.

Partridge, on his way to town, was perturbed by the behavior of the man sitting opposite him. The poor fellow made no movement, but sat there motionless, his elbows pressed tightly to his sides, his hands stretched out in front of him. "Paralyzed!" thought Partridge, and being a good-natured fellow, he was only too pleased to accede to the stranger's request that he should take his pipe out of his waistcoat pocket, fill it, and place it in his mouth for him.

RADIO ACTS AS CURFEW BELL

With the Announcement of "Bedtime Stories" Patrons of Restaurants
Think of Home.

Patrons of a "New York" restaurant in a suburban town are wondering if the proprietors have discovered a subtle way of letting it be known when the closing hour of 8 p. m. is drawing near.

Always on the alert for something to keep the guests amused, the management recently installed a radiophone to supplant a talking machine. The new device proved entertaining with its varied programs of band concerts, vocal selections, summaries of the world's news and other items.

But when 7:30 o'clock brings the announcement of "bedtime stories for the little folks" the majority of the diners begin glancing toward a big clock fastened to one of the walls overhead or else look at their watches. As a result fewer patrons linger after 8 p. m.—New York Sun.

Antipodes Get Radio Signals

Radio time signals sent out from Annapolis station have been heard at the antipodes, or half-way around the world. According to C. E. Adams, official astronomer and seismologist at the Hector observatory, Wellington, New Zealand, time signals sent by radio from the naval station at Annapolis, Md., were heard distinctly by him. Another report received by the naval observatory from Australia stated that the time signals had been heard there within a fraction of a second after their transmission, apparently coming both ways around the world.

TO BE LEARNED BY HEART

O, beautiful for spacious skies,
For amber waves of grain,
For purple mountains majesties
Above the fruited plain:
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea.

O, beautiful for pilgrim feet,
Whose stern, impassioned stress
A thoroughfare for freedom beat
Across the wilderness:
America! America!
God mend thine every flaw,
Confirm thy soul in self-control,
Thy liberty in law.

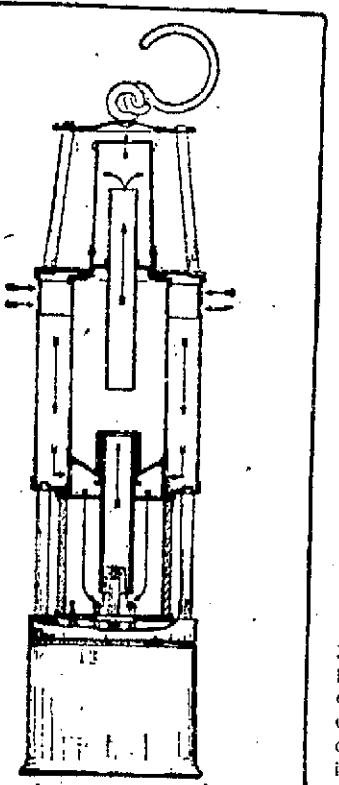

O, beautiful for heroes proved
In liberating strife,
Who more than self their country loved,
And mercy more than life!
America! America!
May God thy gold refine
Till all success be nobleness,
And every gain divine.

O, beautiful for patriot dream,
That sees beyond the years
Thine alabaster cities gleam
Undimmed by human tears:

CONVEYS WARNING TO MINERS

What Might Be Called Singing Lamp Tells of the Presence of Dangerous Gases.

The safety lamp formerly in common use by miners has now been almost entirely supplanted by the use of electric lighting. However, one miner in each shaft is still provided with the benzine safety lamp, for the reason that it affords a reliable indication of the presence of explosive gases. This is because the flame immediately undergoes an alteration in size and color when gas makes its appearance. This demands constant watchfulness to detect the change. Dr. Hans Fleissner, professor at the Leoben High School of Mines, Germany, has recently made the discovery that by means of a special adaptation of the benzine lamp, explosive gases can be made to give a warning to the ear as well as to the eye. Its outer form corresponds to the ordinary benzine lamp. In the upper part of the lamp there is a system of tubes so arranged that the air on entering is obliged to take the direction shown by the arrows in order to reach the flame. When the air contains a percentage of some combustible gas, the flame is increased in size in the familiar manner and there are also produced vibrations in the narrow glass tubes within which the flame burns, which occasion a clearly perceptible sound. In order to make the flame more sensitive it is surrounded by a spiral wire, thus forming a sort of Bunsen burner. As soon as the air which enters the lamp ceases to contain any inflammable gas, the sound ceases and the flame assumes its normal aspect. Experiments have shown, according to an account in Die Umschau (Frankfurt), that this lamp affords an absolutely reliable audible indication of danger when explosive gases are present. It was also shown that the sound is produced only when the methane is mixed with the proper amount of oxygen to form an explosive mixture.—From the Literary Digest.

"Pests" Made Useful

Glasgow, which prides itself on its municipal efficiency, has lately discovered that even small insects may be utilized in the interests of the empire. The filters at its sewage purification works become periodically choked with a gelatinous matter, the clearing away of which was very costly. The local authorities have now enlisted large numbers of insects of the flea tribe and the results are remarkable. Each of these insects absorbs four pounds per week of this disturbing gelatin and allows the sewage to be converted into water that possesses crystal clearness. Acharuses, as they are called, have hitherto been regarded merely as pests, now we employ them.

Calf Went Home in State

The unusual sight of a calf being pushed home from market in a perambulator while the cow, its mother, walked by the side was seen in Newburg, England, recently. Originally the occupant of the perambulator was a baby, but as the calf became obstreperous in a busy part of the town the child was carried.

CAPE STILL HOLDS FAVOR

Flowing Wrap Has Countless Friends
Among the Women; Many Are in Bright Coloring.

"What about capes?" was an oft-repeated question at the beginning of the season. For the cape has many a friend and no enemies among women. True, it seemed to be holding an over-long reign in the fashion world, the designers agreed that it was time to displace it with some other wrap, but the fact that women bought the capes and asked for them insistently gave them a place in the fashion world. For evening the cape is supreme; it is fashioned in fur, in velvets, brocades, metal cloth and fur, in matelasse, in duvetyne and all kindred soft pile fabrics.

A great many velvet capes have vokes shirred or smocked in deep points. A lovely green one seen recently was shirred to represent a chrysanthemum, another black velvet cape was shirred yoke depth and finished by a padded roll about the hem. Short capes (meaning hip-length and knee-length capes) are often a part of the smart coat-dress costume. The cape of metal brocade is trimmed in deep fur bands, as this fabric does not take the soft folds of velvet.

The bright shades of velvet capes, orange, purple and green, give a delightful dash of color to evening affairs. These capes are lined with silver cloth veiled in chiffon or crepe of contrasting hue. Matelasse, too, is one of the much-chosen fabrics for evening wraps. Capes appear in many variations from straight ones gathered very full to circular capes of graceful line, and capes that gather into a band, giving the effect of being gathered into a puff at the hem line.

FASHION NOTES OF INTEREST

Caena, Venetian blues, beaver shades, brown and black are colorings of interest in smart little rolled brim velours hats for girls of six.

A cape effect in one coat style has the cape section secured through hand-worked scallops to the coat body, the under portion and sleeve tops being of silk.

Persian influence is noticeable in the colors utilized for trimmings, and also in the printed duvetynes used for linings or, in some instances, for an entire wrap.

The brims of hats are wide at the sides and the trimming shows a decided preference for big pompons of soft shaded-ribbons or ostrich tips curling over the brims and resting on the hair at the left side.

Bunches of cherries, in black velvet appliqued on the coat front and sleeve, is the trimming idea on one peach coat, with cherry stems and leaves embroidered in a light delicate green. Large pearl buttons and buttonholes form the trim on another.

The broad brimmed, perfectly round, straight crowned sailor has returned, and is as yet only seen in the most exclusive salons. This sailor may be made of heavy canton crepe lined with self-color chiffon over a metal tissue, of taffeta, of chiffon velvet or of fine felt. The brim is perfectly straight and flat and corded around the outer edge with two rows of narrow soutache, cords of the same material as the hat or fine metal braid. The crown is swathed in fine turban folds of the same material or some metal or figured brocade.

Straight Lines Now

Further manifestations of straight-line silhouette favoritism are shown in the prize award in the fashion contest of the Fashion Art league convention in Chicago. Straight lines won the day in a dress of navy milanette, with slashed sides revealing a foundation of platinum-gray cordon crepe.

GOWNS OF VELVET

Material Favored for Dresses
for Formal Wear.

Afternoon and Evening Garments in Black and White; Made Up in Original Ways.

Black velvet is one of the accepted materials for afternoon and evening dresses. While it is always good during every winter season, this year it is better than ever, and of all the collections shown by the smart dress-makers there is a preponderance of black velvet, made up in many original ways. There is not a great deal of trimming added, for the trimming is honored to the extent of holding the floor by itself. But the fabric is handled in such a way that in itself it manages to take the place of both foundation material and decoration, too. And many of the gowns made from it are positively beautiful in their expression.

Particularly lovely are dinner gowns in black velvet, for they have a semi-formal appearance which is most attractive, and they are even better than the full-evening dresses, for they can afford to have a great deal more trimming and to be fuller and more graceful in line—that is, graceful with reference to the quality of the fabric.

Black velvet is also extremely good for evening coats and is trimmed with the puffiest and most sumptuous of furs, so that the whole wrap takes on that luxurious quality so to be desired for evening wear.

White velvet is also one of the favorite materials for evening, and sometimes these two are combined in a most effective manner. A frock of black and white velvet designed in Paris by Martiat et Armand has a little loose jacket of the white that is embroidered with threads of black and gray and silver in a lace pattern around the edges of the little coat. There is a fringe of white to make a finish and the costume, succeeds in being the most effective of its sort. The wide sleeves are faced in white and the gown manages, chiefly by reason of its contrast, to create a distinctly picturesque appearance.

LONG, FULL CIRCULAR SKIRT

This jeune fille frock in grouse-colored satin canton has a long, full circular skirt and a flare around the fitted bodice.

MANY USES FOR THE POCKETS

Convenience Found Almost Necessary in Garments; Likewise About the Home.

Some of our dresses are over-pocketed, while others are pocketless, though there is nothing to prevent us from having as many pockets as we wish.

How many pockets have you in your house? Probably none.

Of course you can—and should—have three or four in the inside of your wardrobe door for slippers and other oddments, and more pockets in the inside of your screen for books and papers and bits of needlework—but there's another notion about pockets. You know how you have all sorts of things that you need in a hurry in those small drawers in your dressing table. If you were to tack little cretonne pockets all round the inside of those top drawers you could put pins and veils and ribbons and hair combs in them, and be able to snatch them in a moment of hurry—always supposing you can remember in which pocket you put them, of course!

Next to shelves, pockets are the most important things in the house, and, what's more, they are decorative if you make them from printed linens or cretonnes.

A Stunning Red

"Russian red" is one of the colors which bids fair to be justly popular during the season. Red is a comfortable wintry color and the vividness of the new Russian shade is positively accelerating to the circulation.

HER HUSBAND

By MOLLY MATHER

(Copyright, 1932, Western Newspaper Union)

The long white hall of the hospital ended at a small moon balcony. Carol, reaching this balcony, stepped out a moment to consult her card of direction. "Room No. 210," Marilyn had written, and 210 was assuredly the last in the long line and the windows of 210 looked out on this very balcony. Carol glanced within. Yes, that would be Marilyn's wounded husband, stretched so pitifully on the narrow bed. She sat down on a balcony chair to read again the appeal which had brought her to the hospital.

"Poor Jimmie," so Marilyn wrote, "it was not his fault that he was smashed in that awful automobile accident. A wild party ran into his car last Saturday when Jimmy was driving at a safe speed. He was picked up unconscious and hurried to the hospital. Both other members of his car were also injured, but Jimmie the worst of all. And there is he, away in your city, Carol, dear, while I am laid up with sickness here in our home. It will be some time before I may be able to go to the lonely boy. So this is what I ask of you, dear old faithful friend of mine—will you look after him a bit? Stop in at the hospital when you can and encourage and cheer him in your own sunny way. It will mean lots to me. And when we are both better you just must leave your everlasting study long enough to come and pay us a visit. Jim, when himself, is the dearest self you ever knew. I suppose you are slowly recovering from the surprise of my unexpected marriage, when I write to you again, but I will remember, I depend on you, and I am ever yours, in loving, grateful debt, MARILYN OLIVER."

Carol smiled as she replaced the letter in its heavily sealed envelope. Wasn't that like Marilyn—exact still, her loyalty? And she had been a loyal friend to the pretty, gay little companion of college days.

Marilyn had been loyal, too, in allegiance. Marilyn had never known what it was to be helpful. But oh! she had been lovable. Carol was not surprised, nor as much surprised as Marilyn expected her to be over the fact of the hasty marriage. Marilyn had met James Oliver during a visit to an aunt and had married him before her return. And this was to be Carol's first introduction to her friend's husband.

Well, she decided as she arose to enter room 210, she would do her best to cheer and alleviate. As she stood hesitant in the white doorway she noticed on the dresser a large photo of Marilyn. Carol, assured, entered the silent room. The man on the bed turned slowly his dark eyes toward her. It appeared that the bound body could not be turned. She saw that both patiently crossed arms were banded too, and she tried to smile, to hide the quick sympathy that threatened tears.

"How do you do?" asked Carol in her brightest manner. "Marilyn sent me to see you. I used to be Marilyn's roommate at school. We are the best of friends. Have you heard her mention Carol Moore?"

The dark eyes of the patient showed a gleam of interest. "I have heard her speak of you," he said—"often." It is good of you to come.

As the days passed Carol was astonished to see how much these hospital visits did help—not only her patient but her whole scheme of life. Her first thought on rising each morning was the anticipation of the good cheer she might carry to a lonely man, lying bound, motionless, in a narrow hospital bed. And strange it was how that cheer reacted upon herself. She went singing about her tasks. She thought over the clever sayings of Marilyn's husband; recalled, with a little happy thrill, the eager welcoming glance of his dark eyes—their evident regret at her departure.

Coldly determined, Carol went next day to pay her visit of farewell. Her heart pounded in an unruly manner as her late charge approached, dressed ready for his departure.

"Dearest," he said quietly, "when are you going to make me happy—as you have made me well. Do you not intend to perfect the work? Look at me; tell me, oh! my dear, Marilyn will be glad." He went on ignoring her silence. "That little matchmaker has been trying to marry me off since I was introduced to her as her bachelor brother-in-law. I am not sure that she did not think this thing out when she sent you down here to visit Jim. Fortunately, my brother was not so badly injured in our accident as I; he was permitted to go home after the first few days and I moved into his room because I liked the balcony view."

Carol leaned forward, tensely; she asked her question. "You—are not James Oliver?" "I," the smiling man replied, "am Jack Oliver, Jim's brother."

"It is so good to know," Carol said after a happy silence, "that I am not in love with a married man."

"You will be," the recovered patient replied, "as soon as our marriage can be accomplished."

Sticking Together

"What! Jim a second-story man? Why, I've always believed in him!" "But he's probably always stuck to his first one with you, dear."—Aha—Log.

THE BALCONY GIRL

By MOLLIE MATHER

(Copyright, 1932, Western Newspaper Union)

Stacy snapped out the light in a lonely hotel room and took the elevator downstairs. As he passed through the great hall he heard coming from the direction of the hotel's cooled dining room and knew, that usual, the evening guests were dining.

Presently a low ejaculation escaped his attention. He had not seen in his absorbed entrance, a young woman already seated far back in the small balcony. Now, with a loud exclamation, she drew back a rose-colored curtain and stood gazing at the door.

The young woman reached for a soft, boyish hat and was slipping it over her long, gray coat. She gazed somewhat confusedly, a number of written pages from the chair, as she evidently had recently occupied.

Stacy arose deliberately. "Please," he said, "do not allow me to see you away from your corner. I will find another secluded spot."

"It is necessary that I remain for a time," she said. "Perhaps you, too, are comfortable in the balcony neither need disturb the other."

"Thank you," Stacy agreed. The young woman left the rose curtain slightly open. "The light does disturb you?" she asked. "I, too, have fallen down into the dancing hall occasionally."

"Not at all," Stacy pleasantly assured her. When she caught his gaze once twice the girl smiled, uncertainly. At last Stacy turned in his chair. "You must forgive my speaking," said, "I cannot help but be interested in your strange choice of writing room—the music—the dancer's whirling. It not all distracting?—And now, interrupting. But I'm internally lonely. Do you know what that means? To be absolutely away from everyone you know. In a big, cold, busy city. Why," Stacy laughed, "it has been a sort of comfort to sit beside me here while you worked. Human companionship, even if given unconsciously. Now, I suppose you will run away."

"I do know what it means to be among strangers in a big city," answered gravely. "And I wish I might be more companionable. But I must write. At the strike of two I leave," said the girl.

Twelve sounded sooner than Stacy anticipated. Promptly Stacy's companion arose. "Good night," she said. He thought of her a great deal the following day. Why had she been there among all those beautiful garbed women in her plain white colored frock? Why had she kept hidden in the interior of an observatory balcony, busy with pencil?

"A society reporter; that's the solution," he told himself. But when James P. Barney decided that the conference must wait another day Stacy decided again to spend his solitary evening watching the dancer from the balcony. He had formed during the day, an acquaintance with the hotel manager, Mr. Holcomb, who escorted his guest genially to the balcony steps.

"Expect some excitement here this evening," he confided. "Our detective are after a jewel thief—been entering our rich patrons' rooms."

Stacy was unaccountably perturbed. Uncomfortably he took his seat in the tiny gallery and looked quickly toward the interior. The girl was there. By this time she was sewing. Sewing in a gay place of amusement. The society reporter theory vanished. The girl turned his grave how and continued her task. But on this occasion she appeared not so composed. Her anxious interest in the affair below was plainly discernible. From time to time she parted the curtains nervously to look down on the dancers. Then, a slight crowding in a certain part of the hall, the girl snatched a hat and cloak from the chair near by, and a moment was down the stairs and almost lost in the throng. Almost Stacy caught up with her as she was joined by a vision of a girl in a white tulle. Together the three reached the street. Then Stacy spoke.

"I thought from your mad haste," he said, quietly, "that you must be in trouble. Can I be of help to you?" "If you would," the balcony girl breathlessly requested, "call a taxi. We are lodging in Wardman street."

Wondering still, Stacy obeyed. "We were eager to get away, my sister and I," she explained. "Because Mr. Holcomb thought there might be a disturbance on the floor, because of the arrest of some jewel thief. Mr. Holcomb is an old friend of our family's. He came from our village. He invited Daphne and me to stop at the hotel, but we preferred to stay where we could afford to pay our way. He has been kind in asking Daphne to the dances. She teaches school in Lyndhurst and has been saving money for our outing. I am just a homekeeper, but she would have with her. Good night, and thank you." "I, too," said Stacy hastily, "am a friend of Mr. Holcomb's."

The taxi went on its way. Stacy sought at once the hotel manager.

"I have been," he told him, "seeing two young friends of yours in a taxi. Could you make it possible for me to meet her formally?" Mr. Holcomb smiled. "I guess you mean Stacy. I will see that you meet her."

ARREST SOCIETY'S BOOTLEGGERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Dec. 21.—Swooping down on a fashionable apartment in P street here today, police and government agents arrested two young men whom they accuse of being bootleggers to a considerable section of Washington's social and official section.
Twenty-five gallons of alcohol which was being manufactured into synthetic gin in the apartment and an "address book" containing names of some members of congress and prominent Washingtonians were among the seizures. The men arrested were booked at police headquarters as Raymond Gray, 23, a broker, and Ronald Hendley Irving, 28, an engineer. Within a short time after their arrest a number of Washington attorneys were endeavoring to secure their release.
The police declined to make public the names of the "oldest list" but among them the police declared were a number of congressmen, officials of the government and socially prominent persons.
Occupants of the apartment house assisted the agents to carry out the numerous bottles in the apartment. When the arrests were made 150 bottles had been filled with the gin and properly labelled.
Other bottles were in process of being filled.
One of the government agents is said to have appeared at the apartment house in the guise of a customer. He later reported that while there a Washington millionaire, whose name he declined to divulge, appeared, accompanied by two richly dressed young women.
One of the women took a look at the government agent and recognizing him, said: "My God, this can't be right. This is one of the men who raided the Little Club," referring to a raid on a fashionable club here a few nights ago.
Confusion followed and then the police and government agents appeared.

OPIUM DEN IN CHURCH'S SHADOW

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 21.—Drug raiders following the "poppy path" invaded the heart of Greenwich Village today, arresting five men after a desperate battle in a dark room.
The alleged opium den is within the very shadow of the Judson Memorial Church. The detectives were led in person by Deputy Police Commissioner Carlton Simon, head of the narcotic squad.
Crashing glass and the shouts of the men engaged in combat drew hundreds of persons to the scene from nearby ten rooms and dancing places frequented by the habitués of Greenwich Village.
According to the police two complete opium layouts and two kits of burglar tools were seized. A woman became hysterical when she was struck on the head by a missile hurled down the airshaft by one of the prisoners.
The prisoners gave the names of Anthony LaRocco, John Russo, Michael Primivini, Peter Radini and Alfred Wales.
Two days ago Dr. Simon received an anonymous letter saying that fashionable dressed women were "frequenting an opium den in Greenwich Village." The letter gave the address and said that the women drove up in motor cars which waited for them.
A recent arrest revealed the names of a number of actresses who were said to be drug addicts and some of these actresses are believed to have visited the Greenwich Village establishment raided today.

A Farewell Reception.
Grand Gorge, Dec. 21.—About 35 members of the force of the board of water supply, from the Grand Gorge, Githoa, Prattville and Allaben offices, gathered together in the Grand Gorge office on Tuesday evening, December 19th, at a farewell dinner to Joseph F. Belanger, who is to leave the force of the B. W. S. after 17 years' service, to accept a position in the New York city service in the Borough of Queens. Mr. Belanger is one of the oldest employees in point of service in the board of water supply, and in his official and social associations, in Kingston, Ashokan, Grand Gorge and Stamford has made a host of friends who are sorry to see him go, yet, at the same time, are congratulating him upon his success in obtaining a location in the neighborhood of his former residence in Queens borough. Department Engineer George G. Honness acted as toastmaster, and after a few remarks appropriate to the occasion, called upon various members of the force, whose responses were received with evident pleasure. Sidney K. Clapp then, in behalf of the members of the Grand Gorge office, presented Mr. Belanger with a small token by which to remember the days spent in the Catskills. Mr. Belanger, though somewhat surprised, very sincerely expressed his thanks for the honor shown him, and remarked that although the change was one sought by himself, he could not feel that it was like going to a strange land and leaving all his friends behind. He also felt grieved at resigning from the Cadillac Club, which held sessions twice daily between Stamford and Grand Gorge, and which settled national and international problems without outside assistance. Mr. Belanger leaves on December 31st to take up his new position.

Compared with the rest of their achievements, the African natives have reached a high development in music. Their instruments, while made of crude materials, are often ornamented with remarkable decorative skill, and the sounds obtained are highly effective. Coconut shells chosen for their size and shape are especially favored for the bodies of mandolins, and with these quaint instruments musicians, who are privileged characters, wander about like the ancient bards and minstrels and exert a great influence over the chieftains.

Radiation From Sun.
Experiments made last summer in Europe show that the amount of radiation received from the sun on the surface of the earth in a clear day is greater with a dark blue than with a light blue sky. In the latter case there is a higher tension of the water vapor in the air. It is suggested that some instrument capable of measuring accurately the intensity of the blue of the sky would be useful in observations on the variable transmission of the sun's heat through the atmosphere.

CLOSED ALL DAY CHRISTMAS

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1922

Sun rises, 7:26; sets, 4:31.
Weather, clear.

The lowest point registered by the Freeman thermometer last night was 4 degrees. The highest point reached until noon today was 39 degrees.

Weather Forecast.
Washington, Dec. 21.—Fair in south and probably local snows in north tonight and Friday, somewhat colder on coast tonight; fresh to strong shifting winds.

Boston has had another tea party. The Road Builders' Association of New England held a banquet at the Hotel Somerset. Enclosed in small wooden cases before each guest was a milk bottle, as shown above. The milk appeared, however, covered good old-fashioned Kentucky whiskey, according to Boston gossip. Prohibition enforcement agents are trying to get indictments.

"Partners."
In these days of bonding companies and enormous corporations the old phrase, "His word was as good as his bond," has a homely sound, and little tales of long partnership with never a hard and fast legal instrument naming what is his and what is other's seem like old tales out of the past.
But the other day when Sam Harris and George M. Coburn dissolved their seventeen-year-old partnership, they ended a period of agreement in their joint producing business in which no contract ever existed, and yet their business was one where more can-tankerous hitches occur than in most. Smooth are the seas when two men, each of whose word goes, do business together.—Christian Science Monitor.

Caribou Swarm in Yukon.
Tens of thousands of wild caribou are reported to be swarming over the hills through the suburbs of Dawson, Y. T., for a radius of 50 miles. The great herd, which annually breaks through the district, is now moving northward. Large herds swimming the Yukon have interfered with the progress of steamers. The herd is so vast that the hunting by men, women and children, who have provided nearly every home with deer meat for the winter, has made no noticeable effect on it.

LIGHT ON ANCIENT HISTORY

Discoveries Made in Old Tombs in Syria Reveal Important Fact Not Hitherto Known.

Two tombs about 4,000 years old have been discovered at Ryblos, Syria, by the excavations being carried on under the direction of General Gouraud, the French high commissioner, according to the Paris correspondent of The London Times.

The age is established by the discovery in one of them of a harpy; a curved sword with a gold handle; a seat of gold on which is engraved the Egyptian sparrowhawk; a gold scarabaeus ring beautifully carved, and a bulb box of obsidian, mounted in gold and bearing the name of Pharaoh Amenemhat of the twelfth dynasty. This is stated to be the oldest inscription discovered in Syria, and proves that commercial relations between Syria, Greece and Egypt were already active 2,000 years before our era. The first recorded conquest of Syria by Egypt was made by Thutmose I (Tethmosis) of the eighteenth dynasty during the Sixteenth century, B. C.

A 22,500-Ruble Stamp.
The soviet postal service of Russia has just issued for the benefit of the furnished people of the Volga, a postage stamp that, as they say, heats all records.

It is a postage stamp of 22,500 rubles. Stamp collectors will gladly stick it in their albums, the more so since the purchase of this vignette will not ruin them.

In issuing this novelty the soviet posts hastened to establish the "parity" of the modern ruble and the former kopecks that were used in the times of the hated czars.

One kopeck equals 10,000 rubles. This new stamp of 22,500 rubles, therefore worth 2 1/2 kopecks (old style) that is, a few cents.

It is to be added that this stamp is colored flesh tint and mauve and represents a fish clasping a hammer, with banner bearing humanitarian inscriptions.

LESS BLINDNESS IN COUNTRY

Figures Reveal a Gratifying Decrease of Terrible Affliction Throughout the United States.

Imagine, if you can, a city of 120,000 inhabitants, where every single soul is totally blind; where doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief, along with the rich man, poor man, beggarman and thief, are all in the same boat—sightless!

America has the makings of just such a city. There are more than 120,000 totally blind people in the United States, and many times that number partly blind. The terrible part of it is that more than 57 per cent of blindness is classed as preventable, a large portion being the result of eyestrain. It is encouraging to note, however, that blindness in America has decreased more than 20 per cent since glasses have become more common. Every other country has a far greater percentage of blindness, and they show a yearly increase. Three of every ten Americans wear glasses. Statistics prove that seven of each ten have enough eyestrain to warrant the wearing of correcting lenses. When we realize the relation of good vision to health and happiness, it is hard to understand why so many people neglect their eyes until they are permanently injured. In the first draft of American soldiers in 1917 had sight caused nearly three times as many rejections as any other physical defect. At the time of the draft 2,510,700 men were examined and 21.68 per cent were rejected because of grossly defective vision.—Illustrated World.

BRUSHES FOR HOUSEHOLD

They May Be Divided Into Three Classes, Which Are Bristle, Hair, and Fiber.

There are two classes of brushes, those with backs and those without. These come in bristle, hair and fiber. It is fiber and bristles that are of special interest in discussing household needs.

The backless brush has the advantage of being usable in any position and thereby being at least twice as long-lived as the brush whose only working surface is one side. These brushes are marvelously made and the bristles, hair, fiber or fabric (mops) are so fastened in as to make a falling bristle almost an impossibility. These brushes come in every department of house life: toilet, bath, pantry, laundry, clothes, kitchen, halls and walls. The Russian pony gives the best horse-hair, and the wild boar gives the most and best bristles. The rest for the bristle is that it will not break if bent back and will spring into place again. The hair and bristle when burned give a characteristic hair odor.

The fiber brush, though a cheaper brush, is adapted to things for which the bristle brush is not adapted. The fiber makes a good scrubbing brush, but the bristle would not be stiff enough. Many fibers are made to look like bristle, but the bristle test will save you from a rash purchase. The bristle brush is expensive and so is the brush of camel or badger hair from which painting and shaving brushes are made.

"Radium From Bohemia.
Government-owned mines at Jachymov, Bohemia, are turning out uranium ore, rich in radium, and the known supply is said to be sufficient for 20 years at the present rate of production; in addition, there are three large mines not yet prospected as to depth. These facts are given out by the Scientific American. Two grams of radium a year are now being produced and net profits to the Czechoslovak republic for the past year were about 3,500,000 crowns. The radium is selling today at 10,000,000 crowns per gram, a crown being now worth about 1.94 cents. While production in the United States is greater in quantity, the Jachymov ores are reputed to be richer in quality.

Then Rich Roared.
Mrs. Rich (with letter from daughter at college)—John, I'm astounded! Helen writes that she is now on the scrub team. Who ever would have thought she'd take a course in house-keeping?—Boston Evening Transcript.

MULDOON WON'T PERMIT FIGHTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 21.—William Muldoon announced today that as long as he is chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, neither Johnny Kilbane nor Johnny Wilson will be allowed to defend their disputed titles in this state nor will Jess Willard be permitted to appear in any bouts there. The statement throws a shadow upon the proposed bout between Kilbane and Eugene Crichton, the Frenchman, for the world's featherweight title in May. It also embarrasses the attempt of Willard to get a return bout with Dempsey somewhere in this vicinity. The edicts, however, are regarded here as of temporary force in that it is expected Muldoon will be deposed on or about January 1 and a new commission installed.

NEW YORK HAD SMALLEST SUICIDE RATE IN 1921

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 21.—San Diego, California, had the highest suicide rate in 1921 and New York city had the smallest, according to statistics compiled today by Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician of the Prudential Insurance Company. The San Diego suicide rate is 48.7 per 100,000, while that of New York is 17.9 per 100,000. San Francisco, Spokane, Los Angeles and Louisville stand next to San Diego in the order named.

Coal Dealer Must Refund.
Dputy Fuel Administrator James L. Hutchinson of Montgomery stated Wednesday that sixty-one customers of a coal dealer in a village in Orange county will receive $4.25 each from the dealer because he is alleged to have misrepresented the grade of coal.

MEXICAN PETE JUMPS TO 320

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 21.—A rise of 62 points in Mexican Petroleum on about half a dozen sales of one hundred shares each supplied the feature to the stock market today. The stock sold up to 320, jumping five points and more between sales. Only a limited amount of Mexican Petroleum is outstanding and the spectacular advance is generally attributed to inside manipulation.

STORMY SCENES IN LUSANNE CONFERENCE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Lusanne, Dec. 21.—Stormy scenes in the session of the Near East peace conference sub-commission on minorities today. It was necessary to suspend the sitting today. Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, of Greece, head of the Greek delegation, became enraged over the proceedings and delivered an attack against the Turks.

Ask Law to Protect American Names.
At the nineteenth annual meeting and reunion of the Reinde Society for Genealogical Research, held in this city, resolutions were passed asking that a national act be passed by congress making it unlawful for any person to assume the family surname of any one of colonial, revolutionary or historical fame. It was also voted that for the protection of such names and to avoid confusion, mistakes or fraud, the organization seek to prevent foreigners from taking any colonial or American names which have been made prominent.—Boston Globe.

New Control for Autos.
Dispensing with the present emergency brake and gear-shift levers in any motor car, the clutch, brakes and gear shifts are controlled by means of pneumatic pressure of from 40 to 65 pounds, obtained from the motor, in a device of recent invention. The apparatus, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine, is mounted on the transmission case in place of its cover, and is operated by means of a small pivoted lever. With the new control it is impossible to strip gears, or to engage the clutch when the brakes are set.

PORT EWEEN.

Port Eween, Dec. 21.—Members of the Epworth League who bought calendars or took them to sell are requested to hand in their money to Mrs. Samuel Pardee not later than Friday of this week.

The members of the Ever Ready Club who have articles for the Christmas bazaar, will kindly leave them at the home of Mrs. Harry Jump on Broadway on Friday of this week.

Popularity of Rubber Heels.
Sixty per cent of the shoes manufactured in the United States today are said to be equipped with rubber heels. Shoes for men are more often equipped with rubber heels than shoes for women. It is estimated that 75 per cent of the rubber heels manufactured are for men. The United States census of manufacturers in 1920, covering production during 1919, showed that 275,387,306 pairs of leather boots and shoes were manufactured by 1,440 establishments. This was exclusive of slippers and other footwear not of leather. During the same period the production of rubber heels reached 133,408,769 pairs and 9,777,065 pairs of rubbers and composition fiber soles were manufactured.

HIGH PRAISE FOR LOCAL RED CROSS

And Near East Relief Field Worker
Also Has Praise for Unselfish Generosity of Kingstonians.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Sir:

As I was passing through your city today, with Mrs. Shimmom we thought we would stop a moment and see how things were going in the town which I feel proud has done as much as any one of its size in the Empire State for the cause of suffering humanity in the Near East. We stopped at the admiral's for a little message of greeting who was as bou-yant and happy as we have always seen him. Then we wanted to thank the mayor and the postmaster for their pains-taking efforts on behalf of the stricken ones. We missed them both.
But our object had also been to see the Red Cross workers in action. As we went down to the basement of the city hall, there were sounds of hammers and fixing this and that. Three men were busy at big boxes loaded to capacity, which were about to be shipped on a journey to extend some seven to eight thousand miles across the Atlantic and Europe to relieve suffering humanity.

We asked for the leaders of the Red Cross, but questions and introductions were not necessary, except that we had to tell who we were, although they knew us. They were busy and happy and entertaining, three of them, and they had already packed six big boxes full of clothing, shoes, blankets and every conceivable thing, and they wanted the goods to leave this very night (Tuesday) in order to leave New York on S. S. Sabat-town which is expected to leave on Christmas Day, to give some cheer to some one of the million odd wandering women and children, wandering in historic places and in countries which have contributed so richly to the civilization of the world.

But then we were asked to examine a little carefully what were being accumulated to be shipped soon—two hundred set of layettes almost all ready but not quite complete. Then came to my mind that in one of our flights I had seen on a mountain slope a little child laid on the snow as we marched for our lives and remembered also women giving birth to children as were departing from our beloved homes. The biting cold of the caravansaries, the awful roads, the shiftless crowd, the helpless children, the appalling despair of women. As Mrs. Shimmom was reading one or two little incidents, tears of joy as well as of sadness were streaming down the cheeks of one of the Red Cross workers. Her sympathy, her behavior were so sincere that it made us feel her very soul was in the work on hand. Inside were sheets and all kinds of provision, we were told, for the local hospital in which they were taking such a real and deserved pride.

I said to myself, surely this is a real celebration of Christmas, sharing one's morsel with the poor and one's clothing with the naked. This was indeed the very heart and soul of religion and of Christianity. Such a spirit need not be praised. Praise is not what it craves. It has a contention of its own and everyone who catches its spirit and inspiration is carried with it in the divine life of service.

We have seen quite a little of the way the Kingston people have behaved towards this work. We are proud of it. This is the true spirit of America. Such actions as these will make America immortal. Not its wealth and its possessions, but its spirit and its sacrifice. Who are the proudest after all, the recipient or the donors. The joy belongs to the latter in every sense of the word, even though the former also get the comfort which service is intended to give.

Mr. Editor, you and your fellow editors have been very generous towards the work of the Near East Relief. But I can assure you that real nobility is amongst yourselves in that such actions are made possible by men and women, and may they live always to serve humanity and make this a better world.

Merry Christmas to you all, good Kingston people.

Very sincerely yours,

PAUL SHIMMOM,
Field Worker, Near East Relief.

Loss Would be Irreparable
There is much curiosity and anxiety to know what has become of the famous Codex Sinaiticus, which was before the Russian revolution, in the Imperial library at Petrograd. This most ancient manuscript of the Bible was discovered in the monastery of St.
Catherine, on Mount Sinai, whence its name, and was acquired by Tsar Alexander II in 1860. What has become of this precious document during the Russian revolution?

More than the loss of the jewels of the last Russian dynasty its destruction would be an irreparable act, even though there is another similar document, known as the "Vaticanus," an uncial manuscript of the Fourth century, found by Tischendorf in 1844 in the same monastery.

Economic Error.
New Jersey's forests are being burned up at the rate of 70,000 acres a year, which means not only that her area of growing forests is being reduced annually to that extent, but that land which should become a public asset of great value is being converted into a public liability of unsightly and embarrassing proportions.
There are 2,000,000 acres of forest land in New Jersey almost within trucking distance of the greatest lumber market in the world, according to the estimate of the American Forestry association, which offers the opinion that sooner or later the people of the state of New Jersey will awaken to the economic significance of the fact,
but that the awakening may come too late.—Thrift Magazine.

Thought for the Day.
To be wealthy is no crime; but to have wealth and do no good with it is a crime.

"IN THE PUBLIC EYE"
BY Dr. S. Stern

OUR eyes are the school teach-help to interpret the messages of our other senses. Between seventy and eighty per cent of the children who do not progress properly in their studies at school are backward because of deficient eye-sight. Do not send your child to school with such impaired vision equipment. Let us examine into the cause and make the

WALSH PICKS
VALLEY ELEVEN

Football Expert for Poughkeepsie Evening Star Includes Middletown and Hordian Schools on All-Hudson Valley Team—Davis Only K. H. S. Player Chosen.

Perry J. Walsh, football expert for the Poughkeepsie Evening Star, has just picked the following All-Hudson valley football eleven. In picking his eleven Walsh takes into consideration both Middletown and the Raymond Hordian schools which makes his selections all the more interesting. Davis, captain of the local football team, is the only Kingston man to land a berth on the first team. In commenting on this selection Walsh says that although Davis played in the backfield this year in his estimation he belongs at a tackle position and for that reason he has placed him there because of his wonderful tackling work behind the lines in all of the league games. Sowers at center is the only Kingston man to be placed on the second team.
